

WHY MOBILIZE IN SUPPORT OF COMMITTEE NEGOTIATIONS?

BECAUSE... when we signed the collective agreement, part of the agreement was that we and management would continue negotiations on various matters through the various committees. We cannot accept the employer party's failure to fulfil its obligation to reach meaningful results within a reasonable period of time. Budgets were allocated for a number of these committees; the parties have therefore every reason to come to an agreement, both for the committees with defined budgets and for those without budgets. This is why the FSSS entered into these discussions, banking on results that must be significant for our members.

BECAUSE... the Federation and the members of the inter-union coalition called the MSSS to account on agreeing on joint recommendations. Already, there are encouraging signs indicating that our message has been heard. We now have to step up the pressure so as to obtain results quickly for our members.

BECAUSE... the demands defended by the FSSS and the inter-union coalition could lead to better working conditions for our members and better services for the population.

WHY MOBILIZE IN SUPPORT OF COMMITTEE NEGOTIATIONS?

BECAUSE... when we signed the collective agreement, part of the agreement was that we and management would continue negotiations on various matters through the various committees. We cannot accept the employer party's failure to fulfil its obligation to reach meaningful results within a reasonable period of time. Budgets were allocated for a number of these committees; the parties have therefore every reason to come to an agreement, both for the committees with defined budgets and for those without budgets. This is why the FSSS entered into these discussions, banking on results that must be significant for our members.

BECAUSE... the Federation and the members of the inter-union coalition called the MSSS to account on agreeing on joint recommendations. Already, there are encouraging signs indicating that our message has been heard. We now have to step up the pressure so as to obtain results quickly for our members.

BECAUSE... the demands defended by the FSSS and the inter-union coalition could lead to better working conditions for our members and better services for the population.

WHY MOBILIZE IN SUPPORT OF COMMITTEE NEGOTIATIONS?

BECAUSE... when we signed the collective agreement, part of the agreement was that we and management would continue negotiations on various matters through the various committees. We cannot accept the employer party's failure to fulfil its obligation to reach meaningful results within a reasonable period of time. Budgets were allocated for a number of these committees; the parties have therefore every reason to come to an agreement, both for the committees with defined budgets and for those without budgets. This is why the FSSS entered into these discussions, banking on results that must be significant for our members.

BECAUSE... the Federation and the members of the inter-union coalition called the MSSS to account on agreeing on joint recommendations. Already, there are encouraging signs indicating that our message has been heard. We now have to step up the pressure so as to obtain results quickly for our members.

BECAUSE... the demands defended by the FSSS and the inter-union coalition could lead to better working conditions for our members and better services for the population.

WHY MOBILIZE IN SUPPORT OF COMMITTEE NEGOTIATIONS?

BECAUSE... when we signed the collective agreement, part of the agreement was that we and management would continue negotiations on various matters through the various committees. We cannot accept the employer party's failure to fulfil its obligation to reach meaningful results within a reasonable period of time. Budgets were allocated for a number of these committees; the parties have therefore every reason to come to an agreement, both for the committees with defined budgets and for those without budgets. This is why the FSSS entered into these discussions, banking on results that must be significant for our members.

BECAUSE... the Federation and the members of the inter-union coalition called the MSSS to account on agreeing on joint recommendations. Already, there are encouraging signs indicating that our message has been heard. We now have to step up the pressure so as to obtain results quickly for our members.

BECAUSE... the demands defended by the FSSS and the inter-union coalition could lead to better working conditions for our members and better services for the population.

